➤ TERMITE CONTROL SERVICE

Termites constitute an order of insects called “ISOPTERA”. Although they are commonly called white ants, they are not related to ants. There are over 2300 species of termites of which about 220 found in India. Only few of these species are considered to be serious pests. The damage caused by termites runs into billions of rupees.

Termites are social insects which live in colonies, a colony consists of three different castes namely, reproductive’s - king and queen, workers and soldiers. Workers and soldiers both are sterile and have no eyes and wings. The worker as name indicates does all work in the colony and soldier guards the colony from predators. The workers are grayish white in color and soldiers are generally darker than the workers. The alates also known as swarmers have brown or black bodies and long equal wings. At maturity, a primary queen has a great capacity to lay eggs. In some species, the mature queen has a greatly distended abdomen and may produce 20,000 to 30,000 eggs a day.

Termites are generally grouped according to their nesting and feeding habits. Therefore the commonly used general groupings are subterranean, soil-dwelling, dry wood, damp wood, and grass-eating. Of these, subterranean and dry woods are primarily responsible for damage to human-made structures.

➤ BED BUGS SERVICES:

Bed bugs are flat, reddish-brown, oval insects up 4 to 5 mm long or the size of an apple seed. Swollen and reddish after a blood meal. Bed bugs only feed on blood. Under cool conditions, bed bugs have been able to survive up to a year without meal. They prefer to be more active at night when the host is asleep.

Found in cracks and crevices, including mattress seams, sheets, furniture, behind baseboards, electrical outlet plates and picture frames. Often found in hotels, where they can travel from room to room and in visitors' luggage or other personal belongings such as purses and briefcases. Females can deposit one to five eggs a day, and may lay 200 to 500 eggs in a lifetime. Under normal room temperatures and with an adequate food supply, they can live for more than 300 days.

Signs of a Bed Bug Infestation

There are many possible signs of bed bug activity. The first would be seeing the bugs. Adult bed bugs are about the shape and size of an apple seed. A second sign would be cast skins. As the juvenile bugs grow, they shed their skins, discovery of which can indicate their presence. Bites also may indicate bed bug activity, but further signs will need to be found, since other sources can cause red welts on the skin. Their bites can leave itchy welts on the skin and can cause allergic reactions, such as severe itching, though not everyone reacts to their bite.

➤ WOOD BORER CONTROL SERVICE

Wood borers are tiny beetles that feed on starch in wood by eating their way into it, leaving behind holes over time, result in serious damage to soft & hard wood furniture. They are insects that damage wood at the larval stage for food. They form tunnel in wood while feeding and leave an emergence hole on the surface of the wood after becoming an adult. After emergence of adult wood borers through pin hole, wooden frass (powder) keeps falling through the hole, which is another sign of infestation.

TREATMENT:

These infestations require special inspection and treatment. After identification, Wood Preservative chemical are injected into the tiny holes created by the wood borers with the help of a special chemicals fluid inside. The problem of wood borer can be overcome by early detection and prevention. Major larva damage occurs entirely below the surface of the wood where larvae eat tunnels.

➤ RODENT CONTROL SERVICE

The term rodents implies to Rats, Mice and Bandicoots. The rodents have become one of the most important urban pests. Rats consume and contaminate food, damage structures and property, and transmit parasites and diseases to humans and pets. Rats live and thrive in a variety of climates and conditions. Rats are often found in and around homes and other buildings, farms, gardens and open fields.

They are also responsible for transmitting various diseases to man. They contaminate this food with their faces, urine and hairs. Their gnawing ability is responsible for not only structural and property damage but also short circuits and fires. They nibble at few cables and entire communication or computer network collapses. Because rats are active throughout the year, one should periodically check for signs of their presence. Once rats have invaded your garden or landscaping, unless your place is truly rodent proof, it is only a matter of time before they come indoors. It is very important to control rats before their numbers get too high so control should be started as early as possible.

Rats, like mice, are active mostly at night.

This treatment is based on type of rodent species, extent of infestation & its spread. There is no single or one answer for rodent control. The Products are used in combination of Baiting; trapping and proofing methods.
